The Annunciation is the occasion when the Angel Gabriel came to the Holy Virgin to say that God wanted her to bear God's own Son. Only by the agreement of Mary herself did that come about: Be it unto me according to thy word. God forces his will on no-one. We are free to reject God's will-and sadly we often do! But those who accept God's will and work with him (from Greek: synergy; from Latin: co-operation) receive all the many blessings he wishes to pour out on us. It brings joy to the individual and salvation to those around. That is why all generations call her blessed.

The People Column

MARIA MIHAELA STEFANUT has returned to Romania after several years here. She lived at first in Lawford at Manningtree, but in the past couple of years moved to Highwoods in Colchester. We are very grateful for her generous cleaning of the church carpets several times, and for her membership of the Choir. We shall miss her very much and hope she settles in her home country again. Many years!

COSTA & MARION GEORGIADES,

Formerly here in Colchester, with their family moved first to Rutland and then to Stamford, Lincs, but continued to regard this as their home parish. Now we are delighted to hear that they have joined the Lincoln parish, where Fr Philip and Fr George are the Priests. Costa runs an Orthodox website, containing a lot of teaching and spiritual help, which you may care to look at:

ROMAN GAVRILOV fell asleep in the Lord on 15 March last year, so his first anniversary falls this month. It is a Saturday and there will be a Memorial at his grave in Colchester Cemetery at 3.00 pm, to which all who cared for him are welcome, with tea in our house following.

MIHAIL & ECATERINA PAVEL, from Romania, have lived in retirement in Colchester for several years, with their daughter and son-in-law. Now, alas! with their family they have moved away to Greenwich in London. I sent them our good wishes and they have replied:

Thank You very much for your kind message. We are also sorry to lose St. Helen Church from Colchester, but we hope to go there, when it will be possible. We want to express our gratitude for you, Father, because you were together with us and we received your blessing. We wish You and your family and also all Christians from St. Helen Church, much health and all the best !

Here and There

DIOCESAN CONFERENCE: The first conference is at a lovely centre in beautiful Derbyshire 26-28 May. Details are in the Porch. I will pay half the cost for each parishioner attending. It is necessary to decide quickly and to book your place. Please speak to me very shortly if you would care to come.

BARKING PILGRIMAGE: Please make a London, led by Fr PHILIP HALL, Parish Priest note of the date for this important Pilgrimage in Lincoln. The Pilgrimage begins at 12.30 pm, as always on the second Saturday of May, and finishes at 4.40 pm. We will arrange 10 May. This year we are honoured to have transport: watch out for details. Please His Eminence Metropolitan KALLISTOS of support his if you possibly can.

Time in the Holy Land

Time is a strange and elastic thing. If I had to say when I was in the Holy Land, last month, yesterday and tomorrow would all be true, in some sense. Last month, I went on pilgrimage to the Holy Land in a group of 16 people from across the UK. We stayed close to Jerusalem in the Tantur Institute and visited the beautiful Judean Wilderness (Mar Saba monastery, pictured), the key sites in Jerusalem and Bethlehem, the windy hill tops of Samaria and the touristy Dead Sea.

But it feels like yesterday, too. We stood in the Church of the Nativity in Bethlehem on Old Calendar Christmas Eve for the Holy Liturgy, being jostled by the sheer number of pilgrims, with the Patriarch of Jerusalem present, and I can recall clearly the Deacon reading the Gospel from the high pulpit and the identical twins who carried the candles in procession, and the feeling that I was sharing in the feast with the local Christians.

How can I be there tomorrow? In the Church of the Resurrection (often called the Church of the Holy Sepulchre), I was completely stunned: I had a sudden acknowledgement of all the centuries of faithful who have been there before me. In Gethsemane, in the quiet of the Tomb of the Virgin, I knew that many people will go there after me – have already gone since I was there – and yet my unworthy prayers will still be there.

Of course, we can have these feelings anywhere; the Kingdom of God is outside time and of course all things are possible with Him. But I wanted to share this with you because through all of my time in the Holy Land, I felt a strong connection to St Helen, that she was guiding me on many occasions, along with the Mother of God and the Saints.

After our first visit to the Church of the Resurrection, I knew something was missing. So I went back on another day and explored further and found the statue of St Helen and the spot where she found the True Cross. A weight was lifted from me.

And in Sebastia, where there is a ruined Church that she built commemorating the Beheading of St John the Baptist, I knew St Helen approved as we sang to St John the Baptist, guiding us safely back down the hill along a narrow path.

St Helen kept me safe, so I bring back this story to you, and the knowledge that I prayed for the parish of St Helen of Colchester in the Holy Land, which I hope resonates there for St Helen and for generations of pilgrims to come.

Diokleia presiding and giving the address. He is an Englishman, a theologian living in Oxford and highly respected throughout the Orthodox world. A group of younger adults will walk much of the way from the Tower of London, led by Fr PHILIP HALL, Parish Priest in Lincoln. The Pilgrimage begins at 12.30 pm, and finishes at 4.40 pm. We will arrange transport: watch out for details. Please support his if you possibly can.
